FRIDAY, AUGUST 3. 1739.

No. 1283.

To RALPH FREEMAN, Esq;

SIR,

thro' my great Knowledge, and long Experience in the Occult Sciences, I must be supposed to look further into Nature than is ordinary; and by my Observations, in my frequent Journeys thro' the Zodiac, to have attain'd a more happy and peculiar Faculty of judging of Things present, and foretelling of those to come, than other Men; so I acknowledge that as well my Sagacity, as my Second-Sightedness herein, is principally owing to the Advice and Instruction of a young Larce, a Domestick, who was consign'd to me by a Correspondent of mine from the Kingdom of the Moon, who is very faithful to me upon all difficult Occasions, and has never been wanting to me in helping me out at a dead Lift, and who lodges in the Valve or upper Part of my Right Ear; and whenever I lean back in my Easy Chair, and incline my Head gently upon my Left Hand, he is sure to watch my Motions, and to help my Imagination, or resolve my Doubts. This being the Posture in which I constantly receive Instruction from him, my Attendants immediately retire, when they see the Fit coming upon me, and nobody is suffer'd to interrupt me, until I have gone thro' (what they call) my Inquiry. As I am convinced by a Thousand Instances that his Intelligence is infallible, and may certainly be depended upon; so the Way he hath of infusing this Knowledge, is made infinitely more acceptable, by the various Means which he now and then takes to change and diversify it. Sometimes I shall have him take me by the Hand, and lead me into the Apartments and private Retreats of Kings and Princes; shew me the secret Spring of Action, by which the World is mov'd and govern'd, and to what minute Incidents, and weak Instruments sometimes, some Revolutions have been owing. At other Times he will convey me privately into the Withdrawing-Room, where I shall laugh until I am ready to burst myself again, at the Caprice, Insincerity, Folly, and Fantasticalness of Mankind; and the delightful Vein of Wit and Humour with which he exposes them. He hath a Bunch of Keys to all the Avenues of the Back-Stairs; by which I am (as often as I please) let into the Secret of Who and Who's together, both a-bed and up; and nothing can be a greater Subject of Mirth and Philosophy, than to know the Foibles of the Great; and that the Gravity of the Court is laid aside behind the Curtain, as much as their Smiles and Promises. I take him with me, for my greater Glee and Delight, to the Playhouse, to the Exchange, to Westminster-Hall, and to the Inns of Court, ordinarily; and occasionally, we call in at other Places in our way, now and then, where-ever we indifferently find Business or Diversion, of any Kind and Moment going forward; seldom failing, at the finishing of our Walk, to take a Turn thro' the Purlieu of Bedlam, by way of Comparison, and to settle the Point of Wisdom in dispute, which hath been so long and so learnedly contested between the World and that Sect of Philosophers. Ha! ha! ha!—let him be grave who can;—I can hold no longer.—This wise, this rational, this just Being; this powerful, this mighty, and this noble Creature, Man, the Image of the Divine Nature, and Heir of Eternity; What a wonderful Dignity is there in his Meis! and what an amazing Degree of Prudence and Judgment in every Thing he says and does! How little doth Pride, Interest, and Hypocrisy, Presumption, and Self-Conceit, rule and govern him! And then so circumspect withal, that in that he is full as incapable of deceiving another, as he is of being imposed upon himself! What a Battle and what a Strife doth he keep (some may say); How much Care, how much Pains, how much Industry is he at, to acquire the good Things of this Life; not knowing his End in it, and that he hath his Eye all the while upon an Eternity of Bliss, and an illustrious Degree of Glory which fadeth not away. But so much for Introduction.—It is from the Materials with which my little Spirit hath from Time to Time furnished me, that I am preparing for the Press a true and exact History of my own Times; in which Province I shall take care to discharge myself with the strict Honour and Integrity of a just and impartial Writer: And by virtue of my superior Advantages, I shall correct the Errors of my Contemporaries, and set the World perfectly right as to Matters of Fact. As I am by this Means incapable of Prejudice, so I have not at present the least Degree of Interest to govern or mislead me, nor, in all human Probability, never shall; I having put so forbidding a Price upon my Integrity, that it must be a miraculous Sum indeed, with which any Body of Men can attempt to buy me off. But this, I imagine, my Reader may be in no great Fear about, I not being able myself, with all my Sagacity, to foresee it. I am under some violent Temptations likewise, to publish by Subscription Six Volumes of Secret History in Folio, which I have ready compiled and digested by me, and which I have deferr'd giving the Publick for One Scruple only; being at a Loss to know, whether it would (just at this Juncture) do more Good or Hurt, in that Truths are not to be told at all Times. It would be a grateful Undertaking to a generous Mind, to do a common Justice between Man and Man in this Case; and to set the World right in a Matter in which their Lives, Liberties, and Properties, are so nearly concern'd. But on the other hand, I know not whether it were not better that they should remain in the Ignorance they are, than be rashly let into a Knowledge, which may in its Consequence prove fatal to them. To instance but in one Article only: Should every Child of this Age be let immediately into the Knowledge of its own Father, what Confusion and Disorder, what a Clamour and Controversy, what Duels and Elopements might it every-where occasion! What were it, but to turn the whole Nature of Things inside out, and to render the present Possessions of Men accidental and precarious, in Disgrace of Truth and Justice, in Dishonour of a regular Succession and Family-blood, so necessary to the very Being of Society, and to the bringing about a marvelous Revolution in the High Court of Chancery, and the Herald's Office! In Imitation of a late judicious Writer therefore, I am thinking that it would be better, upon second Thoughts, to defer the Publication of my Manuscript a few Years longer; in which time it may be morally expected the World may take a new Turn, cross over and change Hands, and cast off, and fall into their Places again; unless by the way I could have Interest in the Government to procure a general Act of Indemnity for what is past, and that Men and Things may be continued in the same Posture and Circumstances they are, any reasonable Proofs I can be able to bring to the contrary notwithstanding. As these secret Memoirs of mine have been calculated in a great measure from the Balls, Masquerades, and the like elegant Amusements of the present Times, a further Inconvenience may attend it, in exposing to the Children of this Age the Nakedness and Iniquity of their Fathers. I question much whether it would be taken well of me, for Instance, if I should go about to tell a certain Person of Quality that I have in my Eye, that he owes his Being to an ill Run his Mother had at Cards one Night, and that it was made up and adjusted Ten Days after between her and Dick M——g, for a certain valuable Consideration, at a Bagnio within the Purlieu of Covent Garden. Should I tell Will Smack in ever such tender Terms, that he hath noble Blood in his Veins, that a Continuance of Three Hours Virtue more would have made him a Peer of the Realm; and that his Mother was at last unfortunately deluded, by having a Glass of Wine too much impos'd upon her, after she had withstood every other Solicitation, and at a Time when she might have commanded any thing: What should they or I get by it? She might run the Hazard of losing her Place as Lady's Woman, and he that of Position, in which they live comfortably; and I incur a Premunire, or stand the Chance of having my Head broke (at least), for telling unseasonable Truths. As I propose to publish this Work by Subscription, I shall speedily give the Town a Specimen of it however, with my Conditions annex'd; wherein, by the way, I shall expect the whole Money to be paid down, and the Reader to take my Word, that their Books shall be deliver'd with all convenient Speed.

For further Particulars, I refer my Reader to the Proposals.

I am, Yours, &c.

RAYMOND LULLY.

ODE

I.

HOPE, specious Bait of human Kind,
Delusive Dream, deceitful Toy,
Who with false Promise leads the Mind,
And feeds it with fantastick Joy.

II.

Fancy's fair Jilt, you still amuse,
With something good, or something new;
You still deceive, yet still excuse
The Fraud, that still we thee pursue.

III.

Alike deceitful in your Choice,
Whether the Prize we gain, or lose:
A cruel Caprice rules your Voice,
Whether you give, or you refuse.

IV.

Dup'd by imaginary Gain,
We're anxious for the Thing desir'd;
Sad, when our Wish we can't obtain;
And quite insipid, when acquir'd.

V.

Thou told'st me Codrus would be just;
How soft you look'd! How kind you smil'd!
Thy Syren Tongue why did I trust?
That Tongue so many hath beguil'd.

VI.

Thou told'st me (False One!) Celia's true;
The same thou said'st to Twenty more;
Why did I then the Maid pursue;
Or mind what'er you said or swore!

VII.

Thou bid'st the Miser to increase
His Store, and swell his golden Bags;
He doth; and lo! his mighty Peace!
'Tis Fear, Despair, Remorse, and Rage.

VIII.

The Upstart mounts Ambition's Hill;
Thou bid'st him glory in his Rise;
A Gust of Wind supplants his Skill;
The Meteor blazes, falls, and dies.

Example, old as Mother Eve,
Declares how Man hath been your Tool:
And all I can from Self conceive,
Is, Thou'rt a Cheat, and I a Fool.

Admiralty-Office, August 1. 1739.
HIS Majesty having been graciously pleased, by his Warrant under his Royal Sign Manual, dated the 10th of June 1733, to establish certain Rules and Orders for the better Government of the Charity for the Relief of poor Widows of Commission and Warrant Officers of the Royal Navy: These are to give Notice to all such Widows whose Husbands died on or since the 30th of August 1732, that Copies of the said Rules and Orders are lodged with the Commissioners of his Majesty's Navy, at Chatham, Portsmouth, and Plymouth; as also with the Clerks of the Cheque, at Deptford, Woolwich, and Sheerness; and with the Naval Officers at Harwich, Deal, and Kinsale; where they may be inform'd of all Particulars which entitle them to the Benefit of the said Charity, and receive the proper Certificates for that Purpose. But such Widows as live at too great a Distance from the Places above-mentioned, may apply by Letter to Thomas Corbett, Esq; at the Admiralty Office, who will send them all necessary Information. And the Governors of the said Charity intending to distribute to the Widows of such Sea Officers who died before the 30th of August 1732, and whose Circumstances come within the Rules of the Establishment, their Share of the Bounty granted by Parliament; these are to give Notice of the same to all such Widows, that they may procure the proper Certificates and Affidavits, and send or bring them hither. And the Court of Assistants do hereby give Notice, that they will meet at this Office on Tuesday the 11th of September next, at Eight o'Clock in the Morning, to receive the Claims of such Widows as shall be qualified according to the said Rules and Orders.

To be Lett,
And entered upon at Michaelmas next,

Dr. ROBERT EATON'S BALSAMICK STYPTICK.

Truly prepared and sold at the Doctor's late Dwelling House, now Mr. DUTTON's in Salisbury Court, Fleet-street.

THIS Medicine restrains in a most Surprising Manner, all internal as well as external Hemorrhages, i. e. it infallibly and quickly stops all dangerous Bleedings at the Nose or Gums, spitting or vomiting Blood, also the immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoides or Menstrual bloody Urine or Stools, bleeding of large Wounds, &c. used according to the plain Directions given with it; as will appear by the Certificates of several Eminent Physicians, and in the large Account of this Medicine, written by the Doctor himself, and dedicated to the College of Physicians, a little before his Death.

It keeps good for many Years, at Sea or on Shore, at Home or Abroad, i. e. in all Climates, therefore must be universally Useful.

The Doctor not only obtained his Majesty's Letters Patent for the sole Vending of this most Excellent Medicine; but also a Clause in a late Act of Parliament, exempting this Medicine from the Inspection of the Censors of the College of Physicians, to which all other Medicines are liable.

N. B. Some of the Apothecaries prepare a Styptic from Prescription of Helvetius, and use it in the Room of Dr. EATON'S; but whoever tries both, will soon be persuaded that Ours exceeds theirs in all Respects, in a most eminent Degree.

Sold, by Licence, at Gataway's Old Shop, Practical School, at the Royal Exchange; Mr. R. Bradshaw's Warehouse behind the Royal Exchange; Mr. John Potter, Chymist, in Bartholomew Close; Mr. William Evans, Bookseller, in Britholme; Mr. Hammond, Jun. Bookseller, at York; Mr. Roe, Bookseller, in Derby; Mr. Raikes, Printer, in Gloucester; Mr. Dier, Printer, in Northampton; Mr. Thomas Greenhill, Mercer, at Bath; Mr. Abree, Printer, at Canterbury; Mr. Howard, an Apothecary, at Kidderminster; Mrs. T. Trobridge, a Shopkeeper, in Exeter; Mr. Hallifax, an Apothecary, at Brackley; Mrs. Unett, a Bookseller, at Wolverhampton; and Mr. Bryan, a Printer, at Worcester.

The Universal Family MEDICINE,

Still more and more fam'd, after upwards of 15 Years Success with the Publick,

Is sold by the Author's Appointment, by Mr. King, Printeller, in the Poultry, near the Royal Exchange; by Mr. Stone, Toy-man, at the Sign of the Duke of Cumberland, in Gresham Alley, near Leicester Fields; by Mr. Thomas Brown, Postmaster of Bungey in Suffolk; and by Mr. Hilditch, Bookseller in York; at 3s. the Bottle Retail.

It is to be taken at any Season of the Year, and is very agreeable to Young and Old, that Children take it without Trouble, a few Drops being a Day, and so gentle, that it weakens not the most Aged: It is a safe and effectual Alternative, to be taken in a last Dose than where Purging is necessary; as a salubrious inherent in this Medicine, which is a singular Property well known to the Learned, to be in some Cathartic Medicines.

It is in particular,

A Certain and infallible Cure for the SCURVY, tho' of the longest Standing, and attended with the most aggravated Circumstances (a Distemper so common to English People, that not one in a thousand is wholly exempt from it, and great Numbers are sorely afflicted with it) being a cordial Elixir, peculiarly adapted to that Disease in all its Forms of appearing, from the slightest itching Humour in the Blood, to its utmost or last Efforts on human Nature.

For it is a true Specifick Cordial, that perfectly cures that Distemper by gentle Evacuation, by Stool and Urine, the only sure and effectual Way perfectly to cure the Scurvy, &c. and prevent Relapses (notwithstanding what may be dreamt to the contrary) the Truth of which is witnessed to daily, by the many Thousands that have taken this Medicine. It so powerfully rectifies the Blood and Juices, that scrophulous Cancers are also speedily cured by it; and all Spots, Blisters, Pimples, &c. on the Skin, are quickly and entirely taken off, the Patients made lively and brisk, many chronick Diseases prevented, and a due State of Health secured.

It removes all Pain in the Stomach, helps Digestion, opens Obstructions, and is peculiarly serviceable to Maids inclined to, or troubled with the Green Sickness. 'Tis the best Medicine in the World to destroy Worms in Children or grown People, and prevent their Return; for it scours away all starchy, viscid Humours which breed them in their Bowels, and is so well adapted to all Constitutions, that it is deliverably esteemed both in City and Country, the most general Family Medicine that ever was known to preserve Health, and hinder no Business or Recreation.

Good Allowance is given Wholesale by Mr. King for ready Money to Country Shopkeepers, &c. to sell again. This Medicine will keep many Years in any Climate.

The Directions given with it are large and full.
